Legal Aid Luminaries

Alameda County Superior Court Judge Steven A. Brick, top left, explores the Bay Area Legal Aid's new Oakland building on a tour with one of the organization's staff attorneys, Alma Leon-Reveles. The nonprofit legal aid group threw a party at its new location on Thursday with music, food, tours and a presentation to honor its supporters, including Burlingame plaintiff's firm Cotchett, Pitre & McCarthy. Bay Area Legal Aid's managing attorney Ariella Hyman, bottom left, socializes with Jaclyn Pinero, another attorney from the organization, and her 4-month-old baby, Andres, at the group's main celebration downstairs. Approximately 250 people attended.
